The Adventurer Club is a worldwide organization sponsored by the Seventh-Day Adventist Church.

The Adventurer Program is designed to support parents and care-givers in the challenging task of helping their children develop fully as followers of Christ in today's world.

The Goal of the Adventurer Club is to strengthen the parent-child relationship and to further the child's spiritual, physical, mental, and social development.

Parental Support and Participation:

Parents are expected to join their children and participate in classes, outings and all other events. Children cannot go on any field trip without one of their parents or guardians

How much does it cost?

The annual fee is $20.00 per child, plus the cost of uniforms ($15-$20). Many uniforms items can be used during multiple years. If applicable, extra fees for Field Trips will be announced before events.

Club meetings are vibrant, creative, fun filled adventures tailored to our young members' developmental needs.

Children learn about God and the Bible, health and fitness, nature, and people skills.

Parents can assist in activities prepared by class teachers, teach awards, prepare games or gather materials behind the scenes.

Activities range from games & outdoor activities, to nature exploration and family camping, and to field trips and community service projects.

A six-level age-specific curriculum is used along with many specialized awards covering areas of crafts, nature, recreation, spiritual development, and home arts.

Regular Meeting Times:

Every Monday evening:
6:00 to 7:00

Starting in September, ending in May, except during holidays and school breaks.
